

BRAD BULLOCH

Brad Bulloch – a Pillar of the Sisters Volleyball Family. Brad moved to Sisters in 1995 with wife Linda, and immediately became an integral part of the Sisters volleyball community. Brad started as an assistant coach for the 1995-96 SHS team led by coach Mary Flande. In 1996, Brad assisted coach Rod Jones with a team that went on to win the first state volleyball championship for SHS. From 1997-2000, Brad was head coach – going to the state tournament each year and being named coach of the year twice. Brad then assisted coach Chris Crosby from 2001 through 2005, and continued as a mainstay coach through the 2015-2016 season. He was an invaluable assistant to coach Miki McFadden from 2012-2014, helping the team to another state title in 2014. The team was second at state in 2015, and then won another state championship in 2016 under coach Rod Jones. Brad retired after the 2016 volleyball season, having helped SHS win five state championships as head coach and assistant coach over a 21-year reign. Besides being an outstanding coach, Brad has been a stellar supporter of all things “Sisters,” helping many students from middle school through college. He cares deeply about the students and encourages everyone he meets – generally while wearing his trademark hats. He has been a fixture at Sisters school events, and remains a vocal supporter. Brad has always put the interests of the students first and foremost, and has helped innumerable students reach their fullest potential athletically, academically, and as community leaders.
